

On behalf of Dawn and me, we wish all of the members of the Military Police Corps Regiment a very happy 67th birthday. As the anniversary of our regiment approaches later this week, know that Dawn and I are keeping each of you in our thoughts and prayers. The past few years were some of the hardest our regiment has ever experienced and the next few years appear to be more of the same. With continuing multiple deployments, repeated long family separations and the very dangerous and difficult environment ranging from the streets of Baghdad, the mountains of Afghanistan, the Island of Cuba and within our own homeland; members of the Military Police Corps Regiment are the stalwart vanguard of our armed forces. WE, the Military Police Corps Regiment, are a major combat multiplier for our nation and have valiantly executed our missions at the tip of the spear. The Military Police performing duties with PTT, Detainee Operations and Military Working Dogs in distant lands, the Special Agents investigating those cases, which if unsolved, bring discredit to our nation, the Corrections Specialists executing humane incarceration within the rule of law, and most importantly the families supporting each Soldier from the home. Parents, spouses, sisters and brothers, all add to the strength of our regiment through their care and love in this diverse Army Family.

Dawn and I are humbled as we look out across our regiment at the dedication and determination of such a daunting force of Soldiers and families. Again, Happy Birthday as we celebrate our 67th anniversary. We are humbled and proud to be members of such a phenomenal team.

Of the Troops, For the Troops!
